GOV. M'CRAY IS INDICTED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 30.—Warren T. McCray, governor of Indiana, whose affairs have been under investigation for several weeks, was indicted by the Marion county grand jury in its report to the Marion county circuit court today.

ARREST THREE KINGSTON MEN

Alfon Alcon of the Strand, Nathan Levine of North Front Street and Tony Aldala Held for United States Grand Jury on Wednesday.—All Out on Bail.

Tuesday afternoon federal agents raided Kingston and arrested Abram Alcon of Alcon Brothers on a charge of receiving stolen goods from the West Shore railroad. Both men were taken to Newburgh and it is said spent the night in jail there. Wednesday morning they were taken to New York city and arraigned in United States District Court.

Alcon was represented by former Mayor Roscoe Irving and W. H. Groves appeared for Levine. Both men were examined and were held to await the action of the United States grand jury.

The goods that Messrs. Alcon and Levine are accused of receiving were alleged to have been stolen from a freight car on the West Shore railroad last August at Plum Point, near Newburgh. The car was rifled and a box containing a shipment of women's hosiery and gloves and valued at $1,635 was hurled into a clump of bushes and later recovered. The West Shore detectives came to Kingston and obtained a search warrant from Acting City Judge Robert G. Groves, and visited the stores of Levine and Alcon where the goods, which were identified by the detectives, were found.

Later the West Shore police arrested a negro in Newburgh on a charge of being the man who broke the seals on the freight car and stole the goods. The negro, Richard Williams, was arrested in Roseton, and turned over to federal officers.

It is said that $1,100 worth of the stolen goods were recovered from the stores of Alcon and Levine.

The federal officers while in Kingston Tuesday also arrested Tony Aldala, who formerly had a barber shop on Broadway, near Railroad Avenue, on a charge of being mixed up in the theft of the goods from the railroad car.

Aldala was also arraigned Wednesday in New York and waived examination to await the action of the United States grand jury. Bail was set at $500 and furnished.

Mr. Levine's bail was fixed at $500 and Mr. Alcon's at $1,000 and each released bail.

OFFICER RENEWS HIS CHARGE OF TAMPERING

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Catskill, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Further charges of intrigue, spying and tampering in the investigation of the death of seven-year-old Howard Hohenberg, Newark boy strangled to death at Windham last August, were made today by District Attorney Coffey, in charge of the grand jury investigation.

One person, prominent in the case, played the part of a detective and spied on the boy's mother. Coffey said.

Papers and other personal effects of one of the investigators were distributed, he said.

Lawyers for the person accused by the prosecutor defended their right to get information to counteract the hostile charges made against our client.

The investigation was to resume today. Because of charges of tampering with witnesses, the district attorney's office is keeping secret the list of witnesses who will appear before the grand jury each day.

MARX FORMING GERMAN CABINET

Endeavoring to Form Coalition of Clerical, German Peoples' and Democratic Ministers, With Stresemann Included.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, Nov. 30.—Dr. Wilhelm Marx, chancellor-designate, was engaged today in completing the formation of a minority coalition government. Dr. Marx is a Centrist—a member of the clerical party. He hoped to be able to introduce his new ministry to the Reichstag tomorrow.

The partial slate revealed that places had been offered to members of the Clerical, German Peoples' and Democratic parties. It was understood efforts were being made to induce Gustav Stresemann to accept the post of foreign secretary. He was chancellor in the former government.

The new cabinet is certain to meet with severe opposition in the Reichstag, but its formation has delayed dissolution of the Reichstag which was considered imminent yesterday.

Opposition will come from two sources that have widely different policies—the Nationalist and the Socialists.

New York, Nov. 30.—Eight fans here today were engaged in a bitter dispute over the victory awarded Frankie Genaro, American fly-weight champion, in his bout with Carl Tremaine, Cleveland bantam, last night. Many of 8,000 fans who witnessed the contest hissed the decision.

ALLIED CITIZENS MAKE SOME LAW

According To Their Letter To Pastors A Prosecuting Attorney May "Issue An Injunction" In Cases Of Volstead Law Violation.

The Allied Citizens of America, Inc., an organization purporting to exist for the purpose of bringing about enforcement of all laws, including the Eighteenth Amendment, has sent to all clergymen and the presidents of local groups of Allied Citizens full directions for enforcing the Prohibition Enforcement Law. A list of local officials is also sent, that for Ulster county including the name of Daniel B. Deyo, U. S. Commissioner, who has been dead for more than a year.

The letter furthermore contains the statement, amazing to lawyers and everybody else who has the slightest knowledge of law or justice, that injunctions may be issued by the attorney general of the United States. U. S. attorneys, district attorneys and the commissioners of internal revenue.

The astounding information is given by Mary Green Brewer, "assistant superintendent of the organization" who fails to state positively where she obtained it but refers incidentally to "a resume of the Volstead Act prepared by the legal department of the Anti-Saloon League."

The resume referred to makes no such statement, but does say that any state court of record may issue a search and seizure warrant and any prosecuting attorney of any state may bring an action for injunction presumably in a federal court. This is correct and may be found in title 2, sections 21, 22, 23 and 25 of the National Prohibition Act.

CAPTAIN WARNER TO HEAD TROOPERS

Governor Smith Names Senior Commanding Officer of Constabulary to Succeed Lt. Col. Chandler.

Governor Smith Wednesday night announced the appointment of Captain John A. Warner, commanding the White Plains post of the state troopers, as superintendent of the state police to succeed Lt. Col. George F. Chandler of this city, who resigned to devote his time to surgical practice.

The appointment of Captain Warner, which becomes effective December 1, was not unexpected, for it has been the practice of the state troopers to promote men in the service rather than to bring in outsiders.

After receiving the resignation of Colonel Chandler Governor Smith asked him to name his successor, saying he wished the officer best qualified to fill the position. Captain Warner was Colonel Chandler's choice and he presented Captain Warner's name to the governor.

In making the announcement the governor said: "Captain Warner is the senior officer in command at the present time and was one of the first appointed at the time of the organization of the state constabulary. He was recommended for appointment by the retiring superintendent and in his opinion is fully qualified to keep the state constabulary on a high plane of efficiency."

Captain Warner is a graduate of Harvard and a musician of note. He plays the organ. Colonel Chandler is a violinist.

Colonel Chandler was the guest of Governor Smith at dinner Tuesday night, and the determination to name Captain Warner was reached at that time.

E. Oughtree, treasurer of the Red Cross, at the Court House their dollar, such persons will receive their receipt, their 1924 button and window card. THANKSGIVING DAY UNION SERVICE WELL ATTENDED.

The union Thanksgiving Day services of the evangelical churches of Kingston, held at the high school auditorium on Thursday morning, were well attended. The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis presided and the sermon was delivered by the Rev. Lucas Boeve of the First Reformed Church, who delivered a most inspiring Thanksgiving message. The offertory was sung by Harold Brigham, and the offering as usual was for the Industrial Home. The president's proclamation was read by the Rev. F. W. Moot; the Scripture lesson by the Rev. J. Wilbur Tetley; and the closing prayer by the Rev. J. Evans Bold.

The "Dancers' Club of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, had charge of the ushering at the service.

Sherrman E. Elghmey, one of the leading merchants of Kingston, died suddenly of heart failure at the home of John Martin at Willow on 55th o'clock this morning. Mr. Elghmey was born 53 years ago today in Willow. News of his death came as a sudden shock to his host of friends and acquaintances. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mr. Elghmey has a summer camp at Willow and Thanksgiving Day he motored with his wife to the camp which he had decided to close for the season. Later in the afternoon the Elghmays called at the home of Mr. Martin to spend the evening, and as Mr. Elghmey felt somewhat tired they decided to spend the night there, returning to Kingston this morning.

During the night Mr. Elghmey was suddenly taken ill and Dr. Downer of Woodstock summoned, but when he reached the Martin home Mr. Elghmey was dead. Mr. Elghmey was apparently in the best of health when he left Kingston for Willow, although about ten days ago he complained of a pain in his chest and called to see a physician who stated he believed it was due to a cold.

Mr. Elghmey is survived by his wife, who was Miss Mary Owen of this city. On Monday Mr. Elghmey's half brother, Eugene Carl, died at Valrico, Florida, and his other half brother, Herbert Carl, is now in Valrico.

On July 12 of this year Mr. Elghmey celebrated his 50th anniversary as a dry goods merchant at his store at Broadway and Mill street. He was one of the best known dry goods merchants in the Hudson river valley, and during the more than quarter century that he had been established in business he had seen the business grow from a small beginning to one of the leading stores in Kingston.

Twenty-six years ago Mr. Elghmey established himself in the dry goods business at No. 19 Broadway, on the opposite side of the street to the present location. By careful attention to business and by giving honest value for every cent spent with him the business rapidly grew and he found it necessary to seek new quarters.

He removed from his first store to the present building at the corner of Mill street, and in 1911 the business had grown to such proportions that he found it necessary to again expand and by purchasing the building on Mill street, adjoining his store, and by using the entire second floor he doubled his floor space.

Since then there has been a gradual and steady growth until the business had reached its present large proportions, and was rated one of the finest stores in this section of the state.

The story of Mr. Elghmey's business success was the story of the industrious young man with ability and integrity, who by strict attention to business and a genial personality built up a business.

When Mr. Elghmey first established his business Kingston had a board of trade and Mr. Elghmey immediately affiliated himself with it as he realized that every successful city needed an active organization of that kind.

Later when the board of trade became the Chamber of Commerce he still continued his interest in the organization and had always been one of the most active members of that body.

Mr. Elghmey was also a firm believer in the Young Men's Christian Association, and was long an active member of that organization.

During the years that he had been established in business in Kingston Mr. Elghmey was always active in every effort that was worthwhile, both civic and religious. He was an active member of Trinity M. E. Church and at his death was treasurer of the district board of stewards. For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday school of that church.

Mr. Elghmey was a man of high Christian character who believed in living up to the teachings of the church. He was a man whose word could be depended upon and who believed in treating others as he would be treated himself.

In the death of Mr. Elghmey Kingston has lost one of its representative men. He believed firmly in the future of the city, and could always be found active in every civic duty that promoted the advancement of the civic interests of Kingston.

LEAGUE MILK NETS $2.32 IN OCTOBER

According to announcement made at the Dairymen's League offices in New York city, the October net pool price for milk sold through the association during October is $2.32.
Of this amount $1.19 per 100 pounds is reserved for certificates of indebtedness, making the cash distribution $2.22. This is on a basis of 100 pounds of 3 per cent milk at the base zone 201-210 miles from New York city. As usual, payments to individual farmers will vary according to butter fat and freight differentials.

This price is $1.12 higher than the net pool price in September and $1.11 higher than the net pool price in October 1922. In announcing the price, the statement was made that for the ten months beginning January 1, 1923 and ending November 1, 1923 the average gross pool price received by farmers of the association was 4.32 higher than the average pool price during the same months of 1922. This was due partly to the increase in the percentage of milk sold in the fluid market and also to the fact that the manufactured products of the association have brought a higher return than last year.

The ice cream operations of the League during the recent summer showed a material increase over 1922. The association is looking forward to a good winter demand for popular by-product and a further increase in volume of business during the next summer. Completion of the new ice cream refrigeration plant at Ulster, N. Y., will greatly improve the service to League customers in that district.

The League has recently established its own sales organization in the southern states including Texas. For merly the bulk of sales in this section was made through brokers and those in charge of the sales activities of the association look forward to a marked increase in sales in that territory under the new plan. In all other sections of the United States, where Dairymen's League products are being sold the League has held its own sales organization in operation since early in 1923.

SAMSONVILLE

Samsonville, Nov. 28.—There was no church service on Sunday on account of the pastor, the Rev. S. S.
Robbins, being ill with grip. It is hoped he will be able to preach next Sunday.

Floyd Shurter and sisters, Maude and Ethel, visited relatives at Sau-gettes on Sunday.

Ethel Shurter spent Saturday with Marie Myers.

Edna Davis and friends were out for a ride on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carson and daughter Theodora, of South Kort-right, were at her father's, F. N.
Davis, recently.

A meeting was held at the Sunday school superintendent's to make arrangements for the Christmas program.

Mrs. Fowler returned home on Friday from a two weeks' stay with friends at Walton, Sidney Center, Rock Hill and Kingston.

OLIVE BRIDGE

Olive Bridge, Nov. 28.—Owing to the illness of the pastor, the Rev. S.
S. Robbins, there will be no services at the church Sunday, December 2.

Card of Thanks.

With sincere appreciation we desire to thank all our kind friends and neighbors who extended their sympathy to us during our sad bereavement and all who contributed

THE OFFICE CAT

Next Time He Took Mother.

o'clock in the morning?"
"She might if she knew about it, but I always beat mother in."

I fear I'll never win my girl.
I'm in an awful fix;
For she is ever six feet tall,

It is a good rule to be sure you

WALKER VALLEY.

Walker Valley, Nov. 28.—On November 13th the Parent-Teacher Association held its monthly meeting at the school house. Miss Crook, the teacher, had a splendid program, which was appreciated by all. The children, large and small, took part in singing, recitations, drills, and several classes reviewed their studies in arithmetic and history. After which refreshments were served. A short business meeting closed the session.
Several new members were admitted.
On Tuesday, November 20, the clipping party given by the Ladies' Aid was well attended. Over $13.00 was realized.

Miss Lou Keller, after spending four weeks in Walker Valley, returned to Brooklyn.

Henry Carl and Joe Jaeger of White Plains, N. Y., are guests at Mr.
and Mrs. C. F. Keller's.

Several of this place attended the minstrel show at Pine Bush.

Quite a number motored to Walden last Friday evening, attending the motion picture of "Robin Hood."

Mrs. Heller of Ulsterville, called on Mrs. Polhamus last week. They also attended the clipping party at the fire house.

Mrs. David Stuart visited her mother, Mrs. Henry Polhamus, who has been very ill.

About 25 of this village were at the reunion in Brooklyn Saturday night, held at Acme Hall by the Walker Valley vacationists.

Mrs. P. Grau is spending Thanksgiving with her sons in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Jansen expect to return home after Thanksgiving, having spent several weeks with rela-

Mr. and Mrs. George Rose are spending a short time in the city.

The Missionary meeting was held

Light Vocal Selections

By the Watermelon Vine Shannon Quartet

Louisiana Lou Shannon Quartet

19142 .75

Many people like these male quartets in "close-harmonized" Southern style. Both sung with beautiful smoothness and harmonic sense, to the full orchestra.

I'm Sitting Pretty in a Pretty Little City Albert Campbell-Henry Burr

Alabama Blacksheep Peerless Quartet

19180 .75

If you have a liking for sentimental music, in fox trot time, with two tenors, with a big orchestra and heavy piano-work, this duet will captivate you. "Alabama Blacksheep" adds two more singers and does it again.

You Can't Make a Fool Out of Me Henry Burr

Pal of My Dreams Charles Hart

19181 .75

There are dramatic touches in these two songs of commonplace life for the tenor voice with the orchestra. They are two of the greatest achievements of these artists.

The West, a Nest, and You-Waltz Pennsylvanians

from a Pennsylvania State College dance quartet. "Sleep" is highly original, with a vocal chorus. "The West, a Nest, and You" is an excellent companion.

Salt Your Sugar-Fox Trot His Orchestra

19178 .75

"Remembering" is a pleasant fox trot, agreeable to dance to.
The Duncan Sisters wrote it—you will hear a reminiscence of childhood play. "Salt Your Sugar" is another excellent fox trot.

Moonlight Kisses-Fox Trot Joe Raymond and His Orch.

Music of Love-Fox Trot International Novelty Orchestra

19179 .75

These numbers have exceedingly romantic titles, but they are wholesome, jolly numbers, free of overstrained sentiment.
"Moonlight Kisses" uses a plaintive type of refrain, but also where it is full of life. "Music of Love" is finely scored.

TWO KINDS OF DEBTORS.

When a member of Congress suggested that France should be urged to take steps toward the funding of her debts to the United States, the New York World, always deeply concerned lest something be done to displease European countries, protests that "there is a natural objection to dunning a nation which has suffered as France has suffered."

"There you have an illustration of the usual Democratic effort to inject deception into discussion. No one has proposed that France be 'dunned.' The United States Government has not even intimated a desire that France pay now, nor has any executive or legislative official of the United States made such a suggestion. The proposal was that France take steps toward the funding of the debt, just as Great Britain did. There is a vast and important difference between asking a debtor to place his obligation in definite form and asking him to come across with the cash."

It was recently announced in press dispatches that the government of France is making plans to loan a considerable sum of money to the nations known as the "Little Entente."

If France has money to loan, she surely has money with which to pay at least a part of the interest on her debt to the United States.

But the United States is not asking even that much. What the people of this country want is for France to follow the example of Great Britain and meet our debt funding commission and reach an agreement as to time and manner and amount of payment. Our very liberal settlement with Great Britain removes any possibility of suspicion that we are disposed to be unreasonable. The deductions we made in the settlement with Great Britain, will, in the end, amount to as much as the principal of the debt.

In this connection it is interesting to note a recent communication to the London Times, by a British subject, in reply to a criticism of the British commission for its quick acquiescence in the terms offered by the American commissioners. He points out that the Americans offered exceedingly liberal terms and that by promptly accepting them and making definite agreements as to time and terms of payment, Great Britain has established a high reputation for good faith. He asserts that nothing else the British Government has done has been more effective in creating good feeling toward that nation among the American people. If Great Britain should ever again be in need of aid, he asserts, she will find public opinion in the United States very favorable to her interests.

Undoubtedly his observations are correct. As individual business men, Americans, in their private dealings, are disappointed, of course, if a debtor is unable to pay promptly. They feel the loss if the debtor does not pay at all, through inability to pay. But such unfortunate circumstances cause no hard feelings. Radically different, however, is the feeling if a debtor shows a disposition deliberately to evade or needlessly postpone payment. If the United States must lose any of the loans to European nations, it can stand the loss. It will not stand, with good nature, any manifestation of an effort to evade or needlessly postpone.

GLOBE GIRDLING BY AIR.

Since 1872 when Jules Verne's imaginary hero travelled round the world in 80 days the length of time required for the purpose has greatly decreased. In 1889 "Nelly Bly," setting for a New York newspaper, circled the globe in 72 days and 6 hours. In 1892 Henry Frederick managed to accomplish the feat in 54 days. In 1911, after the completion of the trans-Siberian Railway, Andre Jager-Schmidt brought the record down to 40 days, and in 1913 a New York reporter named Mears further reduced the figure to 35 days, 21 hours and 35 minutes. This last is the record achievement up to the present time, but with the present development in aviation it should be readily eclipsed, and in all probability it will be when the American Army Air Service undertakes to girdle the world next year. It is stated, however, that there will be no special effort to establish speed records, the object being to find the best airway round the world, to test varying climatic conditions and the feasibility of intercontinental communication by flight. It is stated that the longest "single hop" will be about 700 miles. We read that pathfinding expeditions are already at work and that the State Department is negotiating arrangements with the several countries to be traversed. A squadron of four planes carrying eight men is expected to start about the middle of next March. If successful arrangements can be made in advance for stops and possible difficulties, including repairs and refuelling, there is every reason to expect success.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

ARE YOU SOFT?

As I motored through the Berkshires and saw the little farms on the tops and sides of the hills I just felt like stopping and shaking hands with these robust farmers who were wrestling a living amid such hardships.

And as my thought travelled back to our forefathers and of how they entered the virgin forests, cut down the trees, and cultivated the ground I compared their courage, their endurance, their faith, with the men of the present day.

And what does the comparison show?

Oh you men are still courageous. If danger threatens you'll face it. But it ends there.

You will not willingly court danger.

You want none of the hardships, you don't want to do hard physical things. You don't want to even walk a few blocks.

You are soft in your body, and can endure but little beside that of your forefathers.

When war broke out, you seemed healthy enough, and yet you were nearly rejected.

You were forced to put in months of training to make you fit.

If a pain or an ache came to that forefather of yours, he endured it as part of the game of life.

What about you?

Oh you must have relief, and it must be instant relief. And so any form of soothing or quieting medicine is put into your stomach or injected under your skin.

You simply will do anything rather than endure the pain.

It doesn't seem to occur to you that this constant coddling or nursing of that body of yours is making you so soft, that when any real endurance test comes along, it's going to be some battle for you to come out on top.

Now what did our forefathers do?

Went out and worked every day. Remember, ever day, rain or shine, hot or cold, they did their daily round of work.

What are you going to do about it?

Your work doesn't demand hard things in these days, but you should get out every day, walk some distance every day, do some work with your hands and body every day, or do it in the form of exercise.

Hardening yourself up a bit. Remember your forefathers and try to attain their standard of facing the hard physical things in life.

That body of yours will then hold a man worthy of your forefathers.

Brides Measured After Wedding.

"Measuring of the bride" is a ceremony that follows every wedding in the town of Royden, England. About 300 years ago the lord of the manor bequeathed $25,000, the interest from which was to be given to four brides of the place. Under the terms of the bequest the youngest, eldest, tallest, and shortest brides are to divide the money. The records determine who is the youngest and who is the oldest, but to decide the tallest and shortest, each bride must remove her shoes and let down her hair and be measured.

A Little Bird Told Me.

The common expression, "A little bird told me so," means that information respecting a matter has come to a person in some secret and perhaps mysterious manner. The saying is not a literal quotation, but is borrowed from the twentieth verse of the tenth chapter of Ecclesiastes. The verse opens with a warning not to curse those in power, and even in thought or in thy bed chamber; for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter.

We Wonder?

A man should not so much consider what he eateth as with whom he eateth.

FATALITIES IN STATE INDUSTRIES

100 Persons Were Killed or Died From Disease During October—Autos Most Dangerous.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 30.—During the month of October 160 industrial deaths were reported to the State Department of Labor according to a statement issued by Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag. This number includes all fatalities which appeared to be covered by the Workmen's Compensation law but, judging from past experience, some of these will be found not to be within the provisions of the law. Most of the deaths were caused by accidents, but a few resulted from industrial poisoning.

Four of those who lost their lives were women. One was a clerk in the offices of an insurance company. She was taking a register from a rack when it slipped and struck her a terrific blow. A hemorrhage followed, but her death came nearly a year later. The second caught her heel in a rubber mat at a stair landing, fell and broke her wrist. Apparently an infection followed as her arm was amputated later, and her death came about four months after the accident. The death of the third was attributed to polynuria, probably due to chronic poisoning from her work in wrapping cosmetics. The fourth woman cut her finger while handling lead tops from bottles and developed lead poisoning which resulted in her death less than a year.

A few rather unusual cases were included in those reported in October. The superintendent of an importing concern lost his life in the earthquake in Yokohama. In New York city the payroll messenger of a department store was shot and killed in a holdup.

Out of 125 cases for which the information was available, death was immediate or followed within a day of the accident in 67 cases. In the remaining 58 cases the interval varied from a few days to more than two years. Among the latter were a few cases of industrial disease and cases where tuberculosis of the lungs or other organs followed injuries. A number of cases were reported where death was caused by infections following injuries that apparently were not in themselves of a serious character.

Automobile accidents, most of them apparently met with in the course of employment, took the largest toll. Twenty deaths were attributed to that cause. Eleven of the victims were run down on the streets, nine of them in New York city. Four lost their lives as the result of collisions with other vehicles, three in overturned automobiles or trucks and two others in falls from loaded trucks.

Steam and electric railway accidents were responsible for sixteen of the fatalities reported in October. Ten of the victims were run down on the tracks and the others lost their lives in falls from cars and other accidents.

Falls constituted one of the most important causes of the loss of life reported in October. Ten working men sustained injuries that resulted in their death in falls from scaffolding and temporary platforms, only three of which were due to the slipping or collapse of the scaffolds. Falls from trees, walls and roofs, and into pits, stair openings, etc., were responsible for twelve more fatalities. Injuries from falls on ice or over obstructions, etc., resulted in six of the reported deaths.

Cave-ins, collapse of lumber piles, falling trees, and other falling objects were reported as the cause of seven industrial fatalities.

Other important sources of fatal injuries were strains from lifting, elevator and other hoisting apparatus, accidents, electricity, explosion, and burns. Seven of the fatalities were reported as due to industrial poisoning and asphyxiation.

Among the main groups of industries covered by the Workmen's Compensation Law, transportation represented the largest number of fatal accidents reported in October. Construction work was a close second. A substantial part of the fatalities in this group were due to fall accidents. Wholesale and retail trade ranked third, a number of the fatalities being caused by automobile accidents. A rather large number of fatal accidents were also reported in the metal working industries.

Apes Had Rickets.

Although mummified apes of ancient Egypt show evidence of rickets, no definite evidence of this disease has yet been found in the numerous human bodies examined from ancient graves of that land.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

No Birds About.

"The birds," said Daddy, "are frightened of Mr. Northern Shrike who has black wings and a black tail with touches of white. He has a black spot behind the eye and his body is of a grayish black color. He is about the size of a robin, and I must tell you later about the one I saw the other day. I've been seeing a good many birds this fall—it seems as though many were late in getting away. Of course the Northern Shrike come down to us in the winter time, but many of the other birds who stay. Many South have not as yet started."

"There is a kind of a sociability about the birds at this time that some how is always especially to be noted. At least I have noticed it. The other day, for example, I saw a lot of friendly cow birds having a regular afternoon chat in a field."

"I don't know when I've seen so many of them together."

"And I saw a group of lovely bluebirds high up in the air having a sociable time with each other, talking in their soft, beautiful voices, soon to start away for the winter."

"Mr. Northern Shrike has cousins named Loggerhead Shrikes. The Loggerheads wear white waistcoats and their black touches are blacker than those of the Northern Shrikes—for though I said the Northern Shrikes have black touches often it's a gray black and the Loggerheads don't care for gray."

"The Loggerheads are a little smaller than the Northern Shrikes. They whistle in their harsh way and they build their nests in thickets of twigs and leaves."

"They lay about five or six or even seven eggs so that many little Loggerheads come along to do the cruel things their family has always delighted in doing."

"Shrikes, it is true, eat grasshoppers and small mice, but they eat little birds, too. And they kill more than they can eat and leave their food hanging upon thorns or twigs, so that often they are called butcher birds because their homes look like butcher shops."

"The Northern Shrikes have breasts which are barred. They have feet which are like the feet of other small birds and it is almost impossible for them to hold their prey in their grasp. So they hang it on thorns and tear the bits they want to eat from those hooks of theirs by pulling with their beaks."

"But they leave a great deal on the thorns which they do not want to eat, and that is the worst part of them. For they have eyes which are bigger than their stomachs as the saying is. They think they want more to eat than they really can eat."

"And, too, it flows such a horrid nature to want to kill little birds, even when they're sure they have enough to eat in the home as it is!"

"But Mr. Northern Shrike was fooled the other day. He was looking out at his cruel eyes and seeing what there was about for him when suddenly he noticed there seemed to be no birds about at all."

"What had happened? He couldn't understand."

"And what do you suppose had happened?"

"I can't possibly guess," said Nancy. "Neither can I," said Nick. "Tell us please, Daddy," urged Nancy.

"A brave little robin had warned the other birds that the shrike was really."

"Yes, he had been brave and had risked his life going near to make sure so as to warn the other birds."

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

This is the time of the year when steamed brown bread tastes very good as well as the richer steamed puddings with sauces.

Boston Brown Bread.—Mix and sift one cupful of rye meal, one cupful of cornmeal, one cupful of graham flour, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt, add three-fourths of a cupful of molasses and two cupfuls of sour milk. Stir until well mixed, turn into a buttered mold and steam three and one-half hours. Grease the cover of the mold and fill but two-thirds full.

German Potato Salad.—Cut six medium sized cold boiled potatoes into thin slices. Put into a baking dish and sprinkle with salt, pepper and one-third of a cupful of finely chopped celery and one and one-half tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley. Mix four tablespoonfuls of vinegar with four tablespoonfuls of olive oil and add a slice of lemon. Bring to the boiling point, pour over the potatoes cover and let stand in the oven until well heated. Onion may be added if liked.

Mushrooms a la Newburg.—Remove the stems and peel the caps from one pound of mushrooms. Cut into small pieces. From the peeling and stems make one-quarter cupful of stock. Put the caps into a double boiler, with a tablespoonful of butter, and cook over the heat for five minutes; now place over water and add one cupful of thin cream. Drain off the cream after it has cooked with the mushrooms for a few minutes, thicken with one tablespoonful of butter mixed with two of flour, add to the cream, cook until smooth; add two beaten eggs, the mushrooms, the stock, a dash of salt and cayenne and a tablespoonful of canned fruit juice or apple jelly.

No Thanksgiving Festival For 900,000 Tokyo Refugees

Nurse and junior refugee patients at a Red Cross hospital in Tokyo.

Tokyo.—The Japanese festival of thanksgiving, marking the harvesting of the rice crop, passed almost unnoticed in Hibiya Park, ordinarily the center of great merry-making. In fact the park is a camp for refugees, with a large share of the city's population sheltered in temporary dwellings.

In contrast to the hallowed Thanksgiving Day dinners of America, the 900,000 refugees in Tokyo feasted on rice furnished by the Japanese Bureau of Relief to which all American Red Cross food supplies are transferred upon arrival from the United States. None of the barracks dwellers went hungry, and while their courage and patience under distress is admirable, they were in no mood for celebrating.

Japanese officials controlling the food situation are most precise in distributing foodstuffs and supplies. They fear to pauperize their people. The self-respect of the average Japanese of whatever class, however, is proof against mendacity. A refugee in nearly every case would rather work for his needs than accept free food.

Seishin Hirayama, president of the Japanese Red Cross, speaking of postponement of the international exposition because of the earthquake catastrophe, says that the erection of buildings proved a boon in the emergency. "The buildings were at once put to use as hospitals," he said, "and the showcases that were to contain the exhibits made very good beds for the injured. We do not need them now, for the American Red Cross has sent us so many much better beds."

Tokyo now has almost as many hospitals as before the earthquake, which left standing only 57 out of the 172 in the city and suburbs. Since the disaster the United States, through the American Red Cross, has furnished to the Japanese relief officials 4,100 complete beds, as well as clothing for the patients.

REMARKABLE SAVINGS FIGURES

Remarkable progress in the savings habit in the United States is shown in figures presented to the recent convention of the American Bankers Association by Samuel H. Beach, president of its Savings Bank Division.

In 1921, Mr. Beach showed, twenty six million people had savings accounts aggregating $16,618,355,000. In 1922, there was an increase of over four per cent, bringing the aggregate up to $17,300,000,000. Similar statistics for 1912 showed that the aggregate was only about half as much as in 1922 or only $8,433,000,000.

Mr. Beach's report on school savings banking showed that practically two million pupils are now participating in school banking systems, an increase of 34 per cent as compared with last year and 58 per cent as compared with 1921, while the total of the actual amount deposited last year was $9,618,000, as compared with $5,775,000 in 1921 and $2,300,000 in 1920, an increase of nearly 340 per cent in three years.

Tolstoi's Opinion of Women.

In a recently published volume of reminiscences, Alexander Borovich Goldenweiser, a Russian pianist and an intimate friend of Tolstoi, says that one day the great writer, who was perhaps the greatest feminist of the century, remarked to him: "If you don't repeat it, I'll tell you confidentially: women are generally so evil that there is scarcely any difference between a good woman and a bad one." Mr. Goldenweiser apparently does not explain this extraordinary remark, which may have been made in a mood of levity, or perhaps when Tolstoi was suffering from indigestion.

Don't Be a Piker.

Don't worry over trifles. If you must worry, pick out something worth worrying about and then get busy.

Sudan Grass Excellent Emergency Pasture Crop

If a farmer is going to run short of hay or pasture, he may well consider putting out a piece of Sudan grass as an emergency crop. Two cuttings of hay may be made in one season, giving a total yield of two to four tons per acre. Although it is relished by stock if cut early enough, it has no higher feeding value than ordinary grass hay. The feeding value of Sudan grass hay may be greatly increased by growing soy beans or cowpeas with it. For some farmers Sudan grass would be of even more value as pasture or as a soiling crop than for hay.

Feather Eating Habit Is Sometimes Hard to Cure

The reason that fowls eat feathers is the fact that they are seeking after certain classes of foods which they need but are not getting, says Harry Emberton, head of the poultry department of the A. and M. college. This class of food is represented by any form of milk, kankage, meat scraps, or alfalfa pasturage. If one or more of the above feeds are furnished them in sufficient quantities they will get over this habit.

It is sometimes hard to correct the trouble once it becomes a habit. Persistent cases often have to be killed.

Calling It Square.

She had arrived at a little station in Vermont on a cold, stormy night and had hired an old man to drive her to her friend's farm, up among the hills. The roads were in bad condition from the storm and the ride was altogether uncomfortable. "How much do I owe you?" she asked on arriving at her destination. "Well, ma'am," said the old man, "my regular price is a dollar, but seen' as it's such a bad night and the going's so terrible, I'll call it 75 cents."—Chicago Tribune.

Destruction of Cathedral Led to Great Changes.

Architect's Work in Restoring Church Left Scarcely a Trace of Ancient English Architectural Style.

"With the destruction by fire during the last year of the three oldest Catholic churches in Canada, St. Anne de Beau Pre, the Trappist monastery at Oka, and the Basilica at Quebec, have as much influence on the architecture of present-day Canada as the burning of an English cathedral once had in England," asks Horace B. Cheney in Cheney's Style Service.

"How the destruction of a single building can influence a nation's architecture is a fact attested by history; and the Canterbury cathedral fire in 1174 provided a notable instance.

"Hopelessly defaced by this great conflagration, the cathedral presented an important problem to rebuilding skill, and William of Sens, a French architect, was invited to England, that he might reconstruct the beauty destroyed. His hand sowed, then, in Britain a seed whose harvest spread so greatly that, toward the close of the Thirteenth century scarcely a trace of ancient English architectural style maintained itself in England.

"French forms had become dominant. Thenceforward, for a space in both countries, the early pointed arch developed into the geometrical style, and this in turn to the later decorated style. And France it was who always led the way—a fact clearly illustrated by the choir and transepts of Le Mans cathedral (1217-1254), the choir of Amiens cathedral (1244-1285), the choir of Beauvais (1235-1270)—these all being of earlier period than English buildings of corresponding style and undoubtedly influencing them.

"In 1338 occurred yet another determinant of architectural change. The Hundred Year's war was ushered in and England's troops, led by their sovereign, Edward Plantagenet, third of his name, invaded France. Now this invasion unquestionably had—through the impressions formed in minds of king and followers—noticeable reactions upon England's structures. And these impressions were to bear fruit, to quote a single instance, in the chapel in the palace of Westminster—the magnificent conclusion of which the St. Chapelle of Paris inspired Edward to accomplish.

Tomb of Cyrus in Babylon.

The tomb of Cyrus is in a remarkable ruin, in a tolerable state of preservation, at Pasargadae in ancient Persia. It has been called "a house upon a pedestal," and consists of a pyramidal base constructed of huge blocks of white marble, surmounted by a house of the same material covered with a sloping stone roof.

The interior consists of a small chamber, ten feet long, seven feet wide and eight feet high, entered by a low and narrow door. There was deposited, in a golden coffin, the body of the great conqueror.

It is supposed that a row of twenty-four columns (some of whose broken shafts still remain) inclosed the historic spot. On these mutilated columns is repeatedly found the inscription (written in Persian and in the so-called Median): "I am Cyrus the king, the Achaemenian."—Detroit News.

Her Preference.

A very deaf old lady was plaintiff in an action for damages in connection with a street accident. The judge, finding the case tedious, suggested a compromise and asked the plaintiff's counsel to inquire what she would take to settle the case.

"His lordship wants to know what you will take," roared the learned counsel into the old lady's ear. A smile spread over her face as she replied, "I am very much obliged to his lordship. I think I would like a drop of grape juice."

Intelligent and Grateful Mare.

A miner near Lucerne, B. O., returning home from work was seized by the shoulder by a mare, which had trotted after him. Having attracted the man's attention the animal went back a short distance and waited. When the man went on, the horse again followed him and the miner then realized that something was wrong. He followed the animal to a pond and there found a foal fast in the slime. When he had rescued the foal, the mare showed her appreciation by putting her nose in the man's face.

More Than He Could Endure.

Recently a tramp, taken up in a New York police court for drunkenness, gave his birthplace as Boston.

"Yours," said the magistrate, "is a sad case. Yet you don't seem to thoroughly realize how low you have sunk."

The prisoner struck his brow with a pained gesture. "Heavens!" he exclaimed devoutly, "I have stood many indignities, but to be sentenced by a magistrate that splits his indignities! This is the last blow!"

One Cause of Satisfaction.

Mrs. Hoyle—it's too bad that we were kept at home from the opera by the storm.

Mrs. Doyle—Well, it will give us something to talk about, when we do go.

Farm Ice Houses Prevent Waste

NO FARM is complete without its ice house. A supply of ice on hand throughout the summer months will prevent waste of perishable farm products and will prove a real economy and convenience in the operation of the farm kitchen as well. The storage house should be placed on a well-drained location where it will be shaded during the heat of the day.

The special wall construction has much to do with keeping the ice from melting—ice is winter's only crop and its harvest pays.

From the nature of the stored contents ice houses are subjected to varying degrees of dampness. Rot-proof qualities of concrete provide construction that is not affected by these conditions. Wooden ice houses, after two or three years, require continual repair to keep them in usable condition. All of this is done away with through permanent concrete construction.

Practical dimensions for a small ice house are 10 by 10 by 10 feet, which, allowing for packing material, will hold 20 tons.

Concrete blocks are particularly suited to concrete ice house construction because of the air spaces introduced in the walls which provide sufficient insulation to reduce meltage of ice to a minimum, regardless of outside temperature conditions. The concrete floor in an ice house should have a drain to carry away meltage, but this drain should be trapped so that it will be sealed against possible entrance of warm air.

When monolithic concrete is used for an ice house, sometimes double wall construction is used to provide insulation in the wall, or a veneer of hollow tile is laid on the inside for the same purpose. If a concrete roof is built this may be insulated by laying two slabs separated from each other by a layer of clean cinders. Ice house walls, both monolithic and block, must be reinforced in a manner similar to the reinforcing of silos to provide against bursting due to pressure of contents which may shift so as to throw considerable weight against the walls.

Health and Wealth. Curiously enough, poor people go to health in search of wealth, while wealthy people hasten to spend their treasures in search of health. Happy is the man who has the good sense to recognize that the primary source of human wealth is in reality health.

Japanese Religion.

The Japanese religion demands that a man must worship "on the soil" every day. Princes and rich men evade this by sprinkling a little dirt in one corner of a room, sometimes on a square of cement made for the purpose.

FLORIDA ROUTES ARE INSPECTED

Motor Trip From Northeast Can Be Made Over a Dozen Combinations of Routes—Longest Is Best.

A motor trip to Florida or to any other point in the southland is no longer a hazardous adventure or task to be accomplished at the expense of great inconvenience or unusual repair bills to the motorist. This conclusion was reached by the Touring and Transportation Bureau of the American Automobile Association following the completion of an inspection of the most feasible routes between Washington and Florida, points by the official mapping car No. 3 in charge of A. G. Siller, manager of the touring bureau at national headquarters, accompanied by R. W. Cullen, chief cartographer of the Washington map division. The inspection trip of the routes to Florida which is the second one made by official cars of the A. A. A. this season, was completed November 17.

A dozen combinations of routes leading from the northeastern section of the United States to Florida were uncovered by the A. A. A. scouts. There are detours on all routes, the majority of which, however, are kept in good condition, and no one on any combination is given the maximum mileage of good roads, regardless of the distance traveled in reaching Florida routes can be offered him which will insure a fairly comfortable journey. To the motorist is in a hurry shorter routings between high points which are generally available are offered.

Several combinations of the longer and better routings are given. From Washington to Petersburg, Va., via Richmond there is no contest. The longest route to Jacksonville, one which gives a connection to central Florida and west coast points from Petersburg, Va., is via Charlottesville, Va., Oxford, Durham, Greensboro, Charlotte, N. C., Camden, Columbia, S. C., Augusta, Macon, Tifton and Valdosta, Ga., to Lake City, Florida.

Motorists using this route are advised to go from Charlotte to Camden, S. C., in preference to continuing along the main highway through Spartanburg and Greenville, S. C., and Athens, Ga., to Macon on account of new construction south of Hartwell, Ga., bridge. A few months from now conditions may be entirely changed. At present the soft new grade would offer serious difficulties in wet weather.

A variation of this routing between Petersburg, Va., and Camden, S. C., which would be just as good in dry weather is via Skelton or South Hill, Va., Henderson, Raleigh, Southern Pines, N. C., and Cheraw, S. C. A bridge is out south of Cheraw. In a few weeks this routing may be as good in every particular as the one via Greensboro and Charlotte.

To motorists whose destination is Jacksonville and East Coast points the short cut between Macon and Jacksonville via Perry, Hawkinsville and Waycross, Ga., is generally good. Construction north of Callahan, Fla., necessitates a detour which will be eliminated shortly. The continuous stretch of concrete from Lake City to Jacksonville helps materially to make the longer route from Macon to Jacksonville via Valdosta attractive to the seekers after the maximum mileage of good road.

For the tourist who prefers the shorter route, regardless of road conditions, considerable mileage can be saved by going from Augusta, Ga., via Waynesboro, Statesboro, Reidsville, Lane's Bridge and Blackshear to Waycross. For such tourists the shortest way from Petersburg, Va., to Jacksonville, Fla., would lead through Raleigh, Southern Pines, Columbia, Augusta, Reidsville, Lane's Bridge and Waycross.

For those who desire to include the attractions of Savannah on the motor trip south it is advisable to go from Augusta via Waynesboro, Milledgeville and Statesboro to Savannah. The trip on to Jacksonville via Darien, Brunswick and Yulee has several stretches which would offer considerable trouble after rains.

A. C. Cullen, furnished with a complete report of the trip so the full information as to detours is available to tourists at the 364 touring bureaus of the affiliated clubs. Revised strip maps of the main routes will be available as soon as the corrections noted on the trip are made. Another year will open up the direct lines from the east to Florida as well as through Kentucky and Tennessee for the motorists of the west and northern central states. These routes are now being traveled by those seeking the most direct routing, regardless of detours and new grades.

Byron Feared Obesity.

Historians had much to support the idea that Byron was in great fear of obesity. Enjoying the short season of fame that was his, he studiously refrained from eating heavy meals for long periods, then was quick to eat to excess in a short season. His poetic soul had a strong aversion to corpulence and he pointed out some corpulent neighbors at times as types to be avoided, slaves to an overdeveloped appetite, as he was wont to term them. —Ohio State Journal.

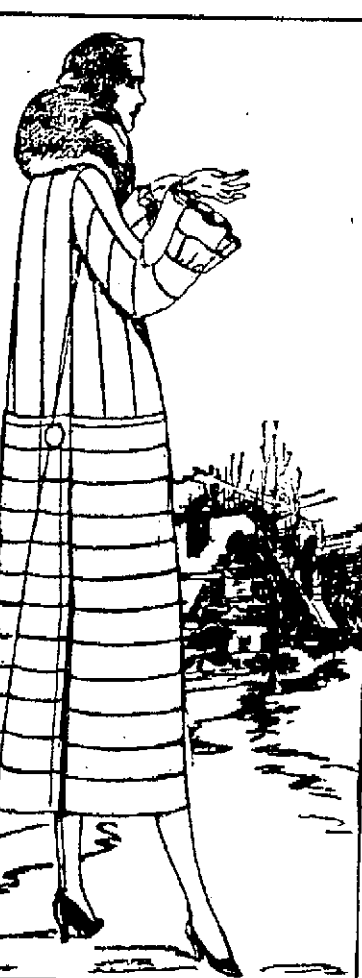

Utility and Style in Sports Clothes

Tweeds, Twills, Corduroys, Homespun, New Weaves Are Used.

Some of the most charming things now offered by the couturiers and shops are designed for sports, for week-end entertaining and general country wear. Frocks and wraps, notes a fashion authority in the New York Times, are made with both utility and style considered, and the chicness of sports clothes has influenced sharply the styles in all street costumes. For all dress of this character are shown a great variety of materials: tweeds and twills, homespun, corduroys and a number of new weaves. It is distinctly a homespun season. The knicker fabrics are having a great vogue, and are most attractive in plaids, broken stripes and mixtures for suits and coats. Saleswomen talk intelligently and engagingly of the "pile fabrics," the "Beechleigh weaves," the "Bobby tweeds"; of swansdown (not the fluffy white stuff that trimmed mother's party dress when she was a little girl, but warm, woolly goods for suits and wraps). And of "Flamingo," a material not necessarily red, nor a species of bird; of "gerona," "velours," lustrous and orlon—the latter for more elaborate use.

Daring patterns are employed for both frocks and wraps, stripes of two tones of contrasting colors; large plaids and self-plaids, and the fur collar is seen on almost every coat and suit of whatever style. Some are most lavishly trimmed with fur, large collar, big cuffs and bottom band. All of the heavier furs are seen, the foxes, squirrels, nutria, opossum, ringtail, being among the most fashionable. Fox is, of course, particularly adapted to the large collars of the topcoats of rough goods and conspicuous designs. The sports coat is a garment of importance. More wraps of this sort than any other are shown, and they serve equally well for street wear, for motor, or for athletic events. They have all that appearance which once was known as "English," tweedy, roomy, and built for comfort.

One of the most striking models seen in a Fifth Avenue house is made of rough, but soft, English goods in honey color, with narrow stripes of black, wide apart. A knee length band of the goods, using the stripe crosswise, forms the bottom of the coat, and the large shawl collar is made of Kamchatka fox. On the coats of soft-toned materials, the castors, tabs and buttons, red fox is especially harmonious. The newest sports coats are cut on a generous plan, and swing away from the figure, some with a decided flare.

Colors You Can Wear; Some Are Unbecoming

Rare, indeed, is the woman who is quite satisfied with the colors she may wear with assurance of their becomingness, and does not crave the shade that is decidedly unbecoming.

It is truly the "something we may not win"—or wear—that attracts us ever.

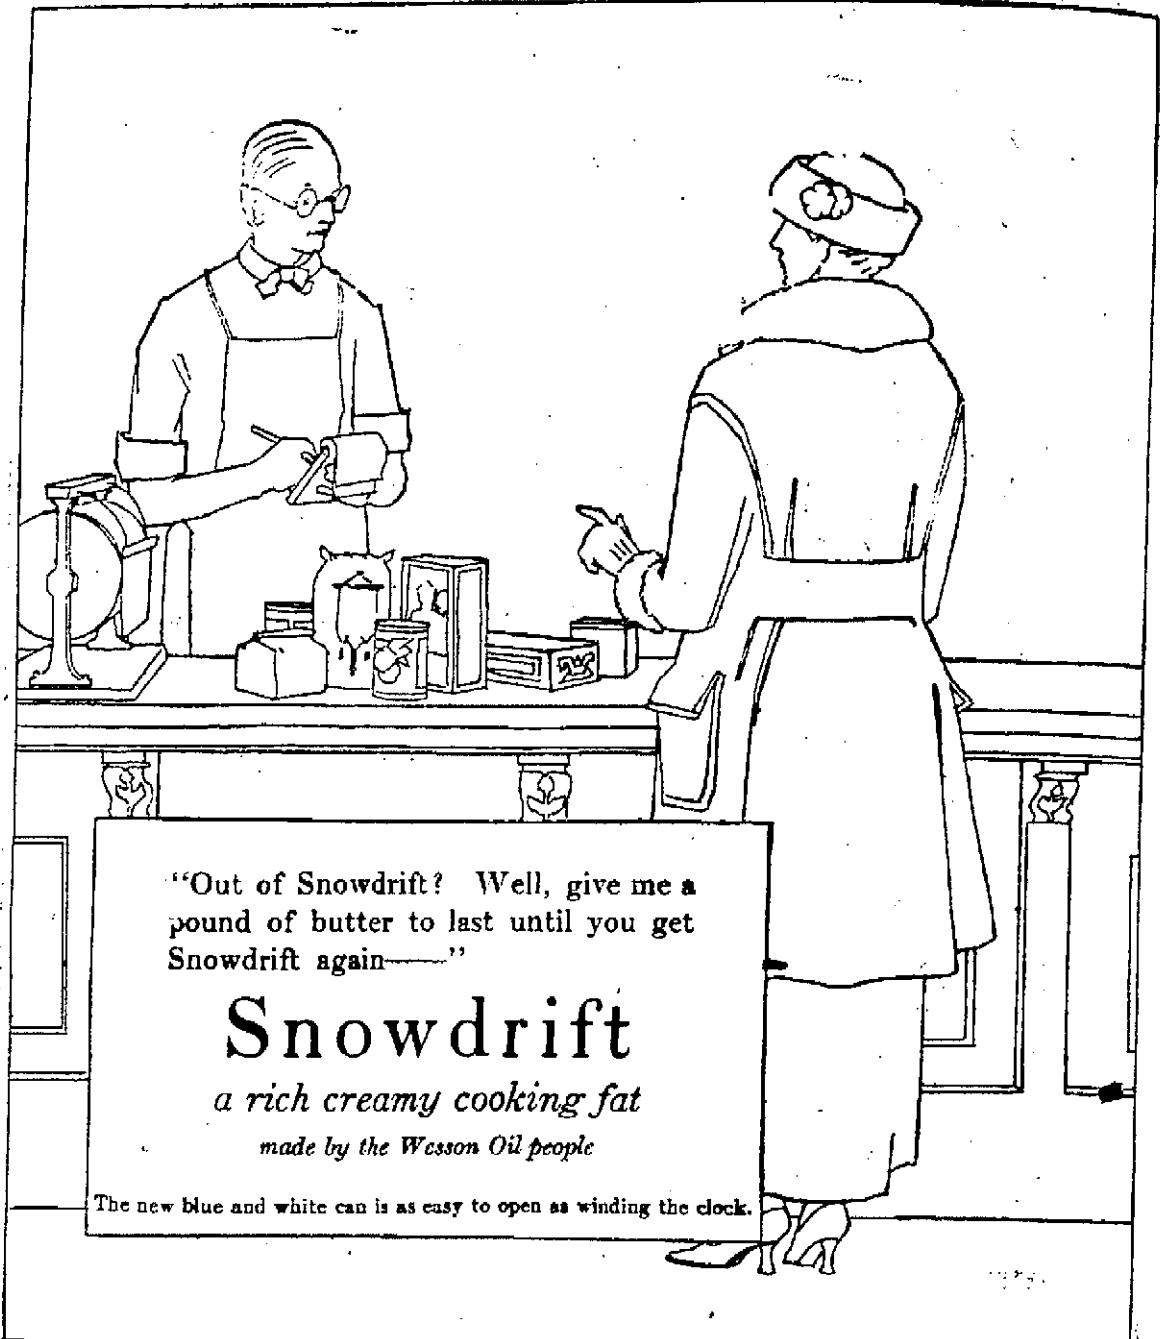

It may be red or green or a deep rich shade of purple that is wholly out of the question, but is sure to be something that lures, yet is not to be considered for a costume.

There is, however, a way of satisfying this desire, in the present vogue for costume accessories, so that with a little study one may evolve a harmony that includes the forbidden color.

For instance, one may keep quite conservatively and economically to navy blue in her apparel for the street, varying it with hats and blouses that are of another color or another shade of blue.

The board of education for Union Free School District No. 2, town of Wappingers, is advised to have plans prepared for a new high school building on a site more suitable than the present one, in a letter received from the state department of education. Commenting on the defect at a recent election of a proposed appropriation of $45,000 for an addition to the present high school building, Frank H. Wood, director of the division of school buildings and grounds, suggests the taxpayers may have been unwilling to spend money on remodeling the old structure.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Nov. 28. Branches of America attended services last Sunday at Holy Trinity Church in the morning. The Rev. Ed. Stadiff, rector, gave a good sermon.

Friday evening was one stormy evening yet with it all, Auxiliary Club held a grand chicken pie supper from 6:30 till 8 o'clock. People came to be served and there was some crowd. Epworth orchestra rendered popular music all evening and it was greatly appreciated. The service was all one could expect. Everything in kitchen and dining room went off without a hitch for they certainly had experts in both places. These people of the club have the reputation of giving the best suppers in the place and they fully sustained their past reputation in this chicken affair. They added a nice sum of money to their treasury, for which they express gratitude to the people who attended.

O. E. S. of this place held a card party Tuesday evening after their regular meeting. Good attendance and fine refreshments and goodly sum of money taken in.

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method:—Measure off two table spoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regenerative powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist, your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Go to the limit! Get relief!

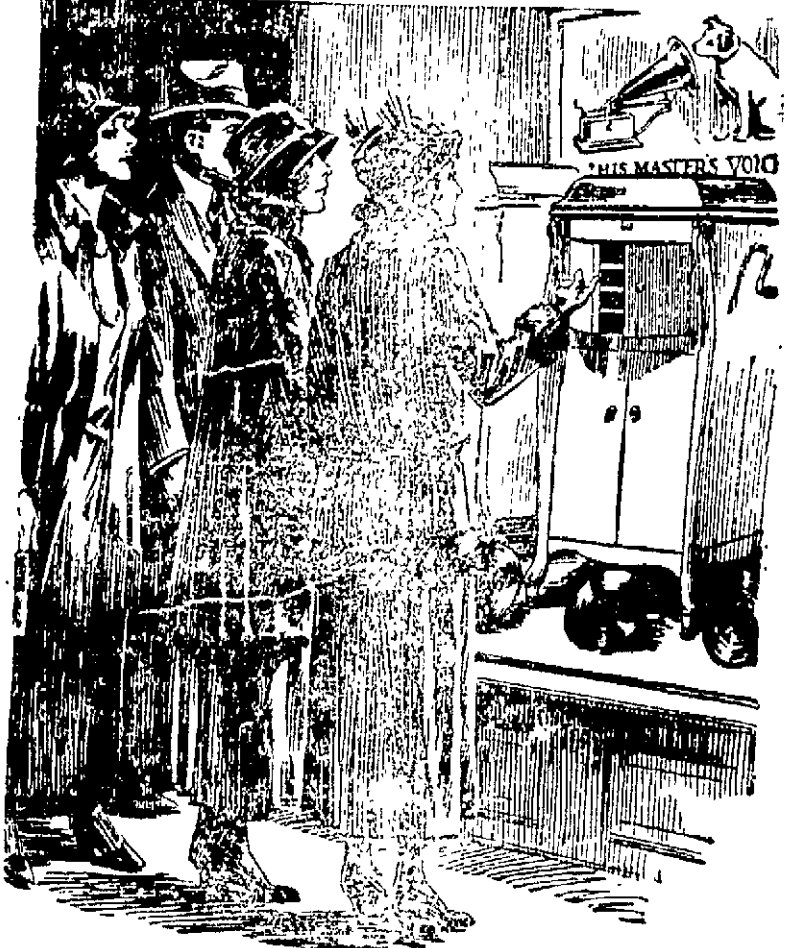

Every member of your family will benefit in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran today! Get well! Eat well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

WADSWORTH FOR A REFUNDING OF WAR ALLOTMENTS

Senator Says Government Erred
in Forcing Veterans to Contribute to Dependents' Support While in Service.

SOLDIERS WITH FAMILIES
SUFFERED REAL LOSSES

It is the Duty of the Government to Reimburse These Heroes for the Allotments Made Out of Their Pay to Square Accounts at Once.

United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., has developed a plan for government aid to American veterans of the World's War who contributed to dependents during their term of service. He proposes that the government refund to them the amount of the allotments withheld from the veterans' pay and sent direct to their dependents by the United States Treasury Department. The total amount which would be paid to veterans would be almost a half billion dollars.

Senator Wadsworth describes his proposal, which is a substitute for the national cash bonus to all veterans, in a letter addressed to Frederick H. Toombs, county chairman Franklin county (N. Y.) American Legion, as follows:

Genesee, N. Y.,
November 24, 1923.

My Dear Fred:

"You know, of course, that I have opposed a cash bonus from the beginning. I don't believe any Government should ever distribute money to a large group of citizens, regardless of the actual needs of the recipients."

"Such a practice is most demoralizing to the recipients; wasteful of public funds and furthermore it establishes a precedent which, if followed in all our future wars, will commercialize military service. It puts us back to the old, old days when professional armies were paid large bonuses either in cash or in landed property in the event of victory. It smacks of professionalism."

"However, I don't want to argue that point with you, but to go on and state what I think might better be done. The soldiers who, as a class, suffered the really serious financial losses were those who had dependents when they went into the service."

"The young man who was married or the young man who had a mother or sister dependent upon him was almost invariably a young man who had started out in some business or employment in a serious way. When he was taken away from that business or employment for a couple of years he suffered a genuine setback which it is difficult to measure in dollars and cents. It would be impossible for the Government to compensate these men for the loss of time for no two of them suffered exactly the same loss, and it would be almost impossible to compute in money the loss of any one of them. The Government made a great mistake, however, in compelling these men to contribute to the support of their dependents while they were in the army. I have always thought that practice wrong in principle."

"When the Government takes a man away from his family (whether he be a volunteer or selected man) and interrupts his business or employment for a considerable period it ought not to ask him to contribute one cent to the support of his dependents while he is away. The Government, or to express it better, the people left at home should carry that entire burden for him. He ought not to have to worry about it a minute."

There is Real Need of Help
"In the last war we subtracted fifteen dollars a month from the pay of those soldiers who had dependents and the Government itself contributed additional sums, the amount depending upon the number of dependents. I think the Government should pay back to those men the allotments which they made out of their pay and thus square the account with them. If you look into the matter with some care I am sure you will find that these men are the ones who came out of the war in real need of financial help. Certainly they needed it far more than the young chap of 20 or 21 who went into the war with no dependents, who was not very seriously employed at the time or committed to a certain line of effort and who suffered no physical or other injury as the result of service."

"I have had the Veterans' Bureau and the War Department estimate how much it would cost the Government to pay back the allotments. The figures ran from $400,000,000 to $450,000,000 total. The records of these allotments are available in the War Department; the administrative difficulties would not be large; the payments could be made with reasonable promptitude. I think they would help the men who really need help."

"If we ever make war again I hope we shall not repeat the error of calling upon soldiers to contribute to dependents out of their pay. I would feel comfortable about it if we did our best to correct the error of 1917, in spite of it being pretty late in the day."

JAMES W. WADSWORTH, JR.

Yes?

At the wedding reception the young man remarked: "Wasn't it annoying the way that baby cried during the ceremony?" "It was simply dreadful," replied the prim little maid of honor. "When I get married I'm going to have engraved right in the corner of the invitation: 'No babies expected.'"

The union Thanksgiving services was held in the Methodist Church at 10 o'clock. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. George J. M. Keltner. The offering was for the Kingston Industrial Home.

YOUNGEST MAYOR A MEMBER

Thomas H. Quinn Chosen Chief Executive of Fairbault, Minn., When Only Twenty-Two.

Only a short time was necessary for many war veterans to obtain prominence in civil life following discharge from the service, as demonstrated by the career of Thomas H. Quinn, an American Legion member, who is probably the youngest mayor in the United States.

Quinn was first elected mayor of Fairbault, Minn., in April, 1921, when he was only twenty-two years old. He achieved such a good record in office that he was re-elected in 1923 for two years.

Born in Fairbault, Quinn was educated in the public and parochial schools, St. Thomas college and St. Paul College of Law. Graduated from the latter institution in 1919, he found that he was too young to be admitted to the bar. He obtained a position with the internal revenue service in 1919 and remained in that work until August, 1920, when he opened a law office in Fairbault.

Quinn is president of the Southern Minnesota Baseball league and a director of the Minnesota Municipalities league. He was largely responsible for the success of the recent convention of the Minnesota department of the American Legion held in Fairbault, and is prominent in activities of the veterans' organization throughout the state.

TO BURY VETERANS OF WARS

Not Exceeding $100 to Be Allowed for Interment of Participants in American Conflicts.

Information has been sent to all posts of the American Legion concerning the payment of funeral expenses for indigent World War veterans by the United States Veterans' Bureau. A sum not exceeding $100 will be paid where it is shown that the deceased did not leave sufficient funds to defray expense of burial.

In addition to this payment transportation charges will be paid by the government from place to death to that of interment, if it is within the continental limits of the United States. Burial in national cemeteries will follow if requested.

Proof that the veteran is indigent, that no money or property is due him, and that relatives refuse to provide such funds is required.

This ruling will relieve many posts of the Legion frequently called upon to pay funeral expenses of war veterans dying in their locality, without funds. The ruling applies to veterans of all American wars.

To Provide Playground.

Because demand for increased school facilities had necessitated building on property formerly utilized as a playground in Bridgewater, Mass., the children of the city had no place for recreation. The American Legion in Bridgewater, realizing the need of school children, took the initiative in securing such grounds by circulation of a petition calling for a special election by the townspeople, with a view to the purchase of certain tracts for recreation purposes.

Chinese Torture.

Shrill walls of torment were issuing from the inside of the house, but eight-year-old Bertie, seated on the piazza steps, seemed totally unconcerned. "Heavens," called a neighbor. "Your little brother must be frightfully ill." "No, not 'sackly,'" confided Bertie. "He just pulled down a jug of molasses in the pantry on him, an' now's comin' his hair fer Sunday school." —The American Legion Weekly.

Auxiliary Helps Boy Scouts.

An appropriation of $150 was recently made by the American Legion Auxiliary unit in Seaside, Ore., so that the local troop of boy scouts might carry on their annual work. The women of the auxiliary also presented the troops with a stand of national colors.

One of the Best RemediesPOST SETS AN EXAMPLE

Some one wanted to know what Kankakee post of the American Legion in Kankakee, Ill., had done to justify its existence. Some one else prepared a summary of its achievements. And the summary is going the rounds of the press as an example of what a Legion post can do in the way of making itself useful in a community. The Kankakee post relieved last winter 250 transient cases and prevented those in distress from becoming temporary charges on the charities of that city. It investigated a large number of cases which proved fraudulent and drove from the town 55 fakes who were endeavoring to enlist sympathy and get money from the public.

It has a record of supervision and care of disabled men, of hospital visitation, of loans extended to worthy service men in need of temporary assistance, of comradely attention to the sick, and of Christian burial of the dead. It has looked after the compensation claims of soldiers, and has stood between them and harpies who prey on the unprotected and uninformed.

Kankakee's organization of the nation's defenders is typical. It points with pride, and there are others which are anxious to match records with it. Collectively, these records tell what the Legion has done for the commonwealth and the nation, as well as what has been accomplished for the communities with Legion posts. — Illinois State Register.

TO AID MENTALLY ABNORMAL

Soldiers' Relief Commission Will Interview Veterans in Oklahoma Penal Institutions.

All veterans in penal institutions of Oklahoma will be interviewed and examined by members of the Soldiers' Relief commission, with special attention to cases of men mentally abnormal. This action was suggested for every state in a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the American Legion's national executive committee. The veterans' organization will co-operate in the Oklahoma survey.

Representatives of the commission will gather complete data on each veteran, to be used in assisting the men entitled to federal compensation, war risk insurance, and other allowances. Vocational training classes and a series of libraries will be established in the institutions as a means of helping prisoners to rehabilitate themselves in civil life.

A survey of the prisons of Wisconsin revealed that 80 per cent of the former service men confined therein were mentally abnormal, 60 per cent suffering from disabilities due to World War service.

To Try Again for Trophies.

Distribution of captured war trophies is held up because congress, before it adjourned, failed to pass legislation requested by members of the American Legion permitting captured and surrendered relics to be given to cities and towns throughout the country. The cost of distribution of these trophies is estimated at $250,000. Under provisions of the bill introduced through the Legion's efforts, they would go to the various states according to the number of men sent to the armed forces. The bill will be reintroduced at the next session of congress so that, if passed, trophies may be finally disposed of and placed on exhibition throughout the United States. In the meantime the War department is caring for 3,000,000 cannons, machine guns, rifles and other pieces of fighting equipment of the enemy.

May Have Home in Park.

If a memorial park is opened by civic authorities in Patchogue, N. Y., a site for a home for the loyal post of the American Legion will be provided. This determination was recently reached by the city council when Legion men appeared at a meeting seeking inclusion of a location for their building. Conclusion was reached that the new home might also include administrative offices for city officials and the edifice will be erected jointly with the Legion.

To Erect Memorial Home.

Veterans at Harrison, N. Y., are campaigning for funds with which to erect a memorial home for use of veterans of all wars. The drive is led by the local post of the American Legion and the goal has been set at $18,000. The building will follow the plans of Independence hall in Philadelphia, and will be dedicated to the soldiers and sailors of 1776, 1812, 1845, 1861, 1898 and 1917-18. The major portion of contributions was borne by the Legion post and members of the organization.

Beacon Announces Meetings.

One of the most novel means of attracting post members to a meeting of the American Legion is utilized by George Washington post, the pioneer post of the organization in the nation. In the recent process of remodeling the clubhouse a pole, ten feet in height, was installed on the cupola of the building and a colored electric beacon placed at the top of it. When the beacon is lighted it signals to the members that a meeting is to be held.

Flies Will Reduce Milk Flow of Cows Materially

The dairyman finds the fly an expensive inhabitant of his premises. Flies reduce the milk flow materially by annoying the cows. It is the practice now to protect the cows through the use of repellent mixtures. The extension division of the college suggests this mixture: Take twelve ounces of crude carbolic acid, twelve ounces of turpentine, twelve ounces of oil of tar, and three-fourths of an ounce of kerosene to make five gallons of the mixture. Use this material in an atomizer and spray the cattle in the stable night and morning.

Origin of a Great Idea.

The cuff on the bottom of trousers came in this way. A Scotchman had been out in a rain and had turned up his trousers at the bottom. When he returned he found he had lost a sixpence. He looked everywhere for it, but in vain. That night, when retiring, the coin fell out of the fold. The next day he had all his trousers "cuffed," and the tailor, discovering the reason, soon built up a big business.—Christian Advocate.

ILLNESS COSTLY TO UNITED STATES

Statistics Show Three Per Cent of Workmen Is Sick Daily.

BIG EXPENSE PREVENTABLE

The cost of illness in the United States is more than $1,000,000,000 a year, a booklet published by Northwestern University at Chicago indicates. The pamphlet, entitled, "The Last Battlegrounds of Disease," reviews briefly recent notable accomplishments in medicine and surgery and cites some of the diseases still to be conquered.

"On any given day," the pamphlet reads, "three persons out of every hundred are ill. In Illinois 200,000 persons are on the sick list today; in the United States more than 3,000,000. It costs the United States $1,000,000,000 a year to be sick—about $100,000 an hour.

Could Save $100,000,000. "If preventive measures could be made available for the poorest communities as they are for the best, a reduction of from 10 to 25 per cent could be brought about in casual illness. At least $100,000,000 of the money lost each year in illness could be saved.

"Moreover, almost 250,000 deaths could be prevented. In twenty years the mortality rate has been reduced 47 per 100,000. If in the next two decades one half as great a reduction can be brought about, each year more than 200,000 lives can be saved—enough to populate a city the size of Columbus, Ohio.

"The time may come when it will be a crime to let a patient die before he is seventy-five from a preventable or curable disease."

Diseases to Be Conquered. Among the diseases which, the booklet says, are still to be conquered are pneumonia, gonorrhea, tuberculosis, heart disease, Bright's disease and cancer.

"Tuberculosis, in spite of the decreasing death rate, still defies the medical strategists," it says. "Though it is no longer the leading cause of death, it claims about 125,000 lives a year.

"Heart disease and Bright's disease are two of the five leading causes of death; with these diseases one of the great battles will have to be waged. "The most stubborn of all the diseases yet to be solved is cancer. Surgery and radium are effective in some cases, but cancer is on the increase. It is the greatest problem in medicine today."

U. S. TRAINING PLAN GOOD

Nation's Armed Forces in Better Shape Than in 1917.

Had the educational system of the army, prior to the World war, been advanced to the point of its present development it would have meant a saving of billions of dollars and many thousands of lives, Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commandant, declared in an address to army officers composing the new class at the army war college in Washington.

"The choice of higher commanders and staff officers," the war college head declared, "could have been made with the assurance that those chosen would give good service and the failures would have been reduced to the minimum.

"When the next war comes, our preparation will be far more adequate than it ever has been in the past. If it comes within the next decade we will have officers of proven leadership in the great World war. If, happily, no great war comes in your time of military service, your hard, intelligent and serious work will assist in the betterment of the military organization as a whole."

MAN 103 WORKS 13 HOURS

Saddler Says People Are Better Working Than When Idle.

Charles "Dad" Quick of Vancouver, maker of racing saddles, celebrated his 103d birthday recently.

Ordinarily he works eleven hours a day. On his birthday he put in thirteen.

"People are better working than loafing," he declared. "Work gives one an appetite for food and sleep. Staying up late at night is no good."

"Dad" took a course of dancing lessons several months ago, but his love for work has so far prevented him from practicing his newly acquired art.

Judge Never Studied Law.

A. M. Cray of Hertington, Ore., is eighty-nine years of age and has been a justice of the peace for 40 years. In that time he heard and determined more than 4,000 cases. His list of cases fills 18 docket books. In the old days the justice of the peace was a jurist of real importance in Kansas. In addition to being justice of the peace, Judge Cray has been police judge of Hertington for 25 years. He never studied law. "I just try to do what I feel is right," is his method of making decisions.

Pope greets Spanish rulers.

Medieval ceremonies at the Vatican were revived for the first time since 1870 when King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain were received by Pope Pius XI. The Spanish monarchs were seated on low thrones to the left, while the Pope occupied the Pontifical Throne in the center of the Consistorial Hall. The Spanish rulers thrice bent the knee before the Pope, then knelt and kissed the Pope's toe, thereby restoring the ancient ceremonial to denote humility and the homage due by Catholic sovereigns. King Alfonso is shown kneeling before the Pope, while Queen Victoria is still seated on her throne.

Both sides threatened during the contest, but the wet field slowed up a number of plays.

Where Women Can't Act.

One of the peculiar customs that prevail in Japan is that men shall take all feminine roles in stage productions, and that custom continues although that country has produced actresses of marked ability. The persistence of the custom illustrates how soundly countries may be wedded to a habit even when the conditions that caused it to be put in practice all have disappeared.—Ohio State Journal.

COMMITTEES WILL STUDY REPARATIONS

U. S. Invited To Take Part—For The Moment We Are in Accord Says British Delegate.

Paris, Nov. 30.—The inter-allied reparations commission today decided to appoint two committees of experts to study the German indemnity question. The United States will be invited to participate.

The commission met for an hour and a half considering the additional reparations proposals made by a delegation of economic experts from Berlin on November 22.

The commission did not discuss the Ruhr nor the agreements between the Franco-Belgian occupational forces and German industrialists.

A communiqué was issued announcing the decision to appoint the committees.

It learned that the commissioners decided not to discuss the Ruhr nor the agreements because preliminary Anglo-French governmental negotiations showed there was no possibility of accord.

Sir John Bradbury, the British member, said that the situation was satisfactory.

"I came back from London with the olive branch in hand," Sir John said. "I had a very amicable meeting. At the moment we are in complete accord."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 30.—Irregularity marked the trading at the opening of the stock market today.

Nothing of any consequence transpired over the holiday recess to influence the forenoon trading. Transactions were extremely light.

The market was somewhat firmer in the afternoon trading. Some of the oil stocks in particular gave a good account of themselves, on the announcement of another decrease in the weekly crude oil production.

FIRST WOMAN TO RIDE IN CLASSIC

Miss Betty Tanner, mounted on "Pennant," riding in the historic four-mile Town Plate steeplechase at Newmarket, a race established in 1905 by King Charles II—the first time a woman ever rode in a "fixture" race in England, probably in the world. Miss Tanner finished third, but critics agreed that she rode a great race, her horse being handicapped by 49 pounds of lead in the saddle pockets. Miss Tanner, who is twenty-seven years old, is known as a daring and skilful horsewoman and at present is managing a stud of 18 thoroughbreds at Newmarket, where her father, Capt. Ernest Tanner, is also well known as a breeder and owner of race horses.

Game Hasn't Improved

"Baseball hasn't improved much to speak of since the 'eighties," opines an old-time player. "Sacrifice flies, squeeze plays and the like are spoken of as modern plays, but we had them in our day. We did not call them by those names then. We used to have 13 or 14 players on a team. A man would pitch one day and play the outfield the next."

Plays With One Leg

When Vernon Schwab lost his right leg in a hunting accident some years ago, he didn't let the accident bother him much. Young Schwab was always athletic and played football and basketball, being captain now of the gridiron team of Stevens high at Dayton, Ohio. He's played regularly since 1921, and despite his artificial leg is considered one of the best backfield men among the scholastic players.

Cashion Finished Poor

Second to Larry Lajoie
Many stories have been told of Larry Lajoie's batting prowess. Here are two that are worth repeating:
Carl Cashion, who formerly pitched for Washington in the American league, related an interesting story of a battle of wits between himself and Lajoie in which Cash finished a bad second.
"I was pitching against Cleveland in a tight game one day," says Cashion. "Washington was leading 3 to 2 in the ninth inning. Two Cleveland runners were on the paths, two out, and Lajoie was up. I was determined to walk him if I had to make four wild pitches. Well, I shot one high and outside that I thought the catcher would be lucky to spear. Now what that Frenchman did? He just reached out with that young tree he battled with and knocked the ball out of the lot and beat me out of the game."

White Sox Have Picked

Fast Man in Archdeacon
It takes more than a few weeks to tell whether a new man in the big leagues has the stuff. Based on the final averages, it seems that the White Sox have picked up a good man in Archdeacon, an outfielder, brought from the International. In twenty-two games he hit .402, tying the average of Harry Heilmann. Offhand one would say that Archdeacon, who is said to be the fastest man in baseball, can't hit. But let the pitchers look him over for a while and discover what weakness he may have. The chances are that he won't hit so well. He won't have to bat up to that figure to be worth while as a ball player.

That Explains It.

REDUCTION of TAXATION

ISSUE IS LAID SQUARELY BEFORE PUBLIC

Copyright, 1923, by National Budget Committee

THERE can be no doubt that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's recommendation to Acting Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee that the next Congress make a general downward revision of taxes has struck a responsive chord throughout the country. It is concrete evidence, the kind that can be understood in every American home, that after a disastrous world war, the United States have passed the critical period of readjustment.

The approach to normal conditions has not been open without a considerable effort, however, and it will be well for citizens, encouraged by Secretary Mellon's statement, to keep this in mind. The surplus of receipts over expenditures which has resulted at the close of each year since the war ended, was made possible only by a program of economy in the conduct of public business. This program received definition in and an impulse from a new budgetary system which became operative in 1921. Administrative requirements were reduced to a minimum and constant pressure was exerted to anticipate tendencies on the part of Congress to return to the former system of ill-considered, extravagant appropriations. A revolutionary change in the attitude of administrative departments toward the expenditure of the public money was effected and Congress, on the whole, was diligent in cooperation. Mr. Mellon's recommendations are based upon the assumption that this attitude on the part of the executive and legislative branches will continue.

The issue between this new method of conducting public affairs and the old system is now laid before the people for their consideration. Through their representatives in Congress they must now decide whether they prefer general reduction in Federal taxation or whether they prefer that the lid so tightly clamped down on Government expenditures during the last three years shall be lifted. Either the program of economy and efficiency in Government affairs must be continued or the proposal to reduce taxes to any appreciable extent must be given up.

As an economic problem the present proposal to reduce taxes can be readily understood. It is estimated that taxes collected during the year 1923 upon the business of the year 1924 will yield revenues in excess of expenditures to the extent of $332,000,000. This is the margin within which tax reductions may be made and this margin will be reduced dollar for dollar in the proportion that expenditures not now contemplated by the Government are authorized by Congress.

Compared with the total of expenditures this margin is not large. Guaged, however, by the benefits, direct and indirect, which a reduction in taxes to that amount would bring to more than 14,000,000 taxpayers, it is an enormous sum. Relief from payments to the Government is but a part of the benefit that is to be conferred. Of vastly greater importance in the long run will be the fulfillment of Secretary Mellon's prediction that a decrease in taxes will bring an increase of funds available for investment in productive industries. Such an outcome would mean not only more income for persons employed but a reduction in the costs of the necessities of life upon which these incomes are expended.

THE MELLON PLAN

By JOHN T. ADAMS,
Chairman of the Republican National Committee

Secretary from those of small "earned" income, which is income expressed in terms of wages and salaries as distinguished from incomes from investments. Of the total reduction proposed in the income tax under Secretary Mellon's plan 41 per cent would be saved to those with incomes of less than $5,000, while less than 5 per cent would be saved to those with incomes of $100,000 or over.

In addition to the savings in income tax under the Republican law of 1921, the American consumers were relieved of paying approximately $240,000,000 a year by the repeal of a great number of miscellaneous taxes, such as tax on drugs and toilet articles, soft drinks and candy, passenger tickets, freight and express shipments, merchandise, etc.

Secretary Mellon's second proposal, the repeal of taxes on telegrams, telephones, theatre and amusement tickets, so-called luxury taxes, such as that now imposed on watches and silverware, and a number of other "nuisance" taxes. The repeal of these taxes would mean a further reduction to the consumers of the country of $100,000,000 a year.

In all of the agricultural states the reduction in income tax under the Republican law of 1921, is commensurate from every standpoint, with collections under the Democratic law. It is not sectional. It does not penalize one class of citizens at the expense of another class. It is a tax law of 1921 was framed in the interest of the wealthy, greatest load from those least able to pay. It is without partisanship. It is justified by every business practice and by the principles of sound political economy.

MORE THAN 1,500 ATTENDED FETE

As the throngs of people entered the armory on Wednesday evening to attend the Junior League Fete they were greeted with such a realistic picture of an Old World Fete on the eve of one of our peculiarly national holidays as to give one quite an international sensation. More than 1,500 people attended. One can enumerate the features that went to make up the kaleidoscopic picture, but one cannot reduce to cold print the general effect, which was exceedingly colorful and artistic. The lighting effect was unusually good, the cages that protect the hanging lights being screened with fine hemlock branches, while circles of orange covering the lights at the bottom, and having suspended from them long tassels of black crepe paper streamers, shed a soft glow all through the otherwise bare looking drill hall. The basketball baskets blossomed forth into baskets of evergreens and blossoms, while evergreens surrounded the orchestral platform in the center of the floor. Even the bleachers at the far end of the armory were dressed up with a screening of evergreen, and directly in front of them one could stand under a huge umbrella and look over and purchase unique and charming calendars and Christmas cards offered for sale by Mrs. I. P. Summers of Woodstock.

But on entering the hall, one was greeted at the door by the pretty flower and cigar booth presided over by members of the Junior League, and right next to it was, what might be called the demonstration booth, of the child welfare work which the Junior League will now carry on much more widely with the funds received from this ball.

The Egyptian Booth, where according to traditions unearthed at King Tut's Tomb, the Junior League must have dispensed the nectar of perpetual youth in the guise of punch, was the first of the gay booths of the Woodstock Market Fair, extending all along the uptown side of the armory.

The first and one of the most interesting and elaborate displays of foodstuffs and crafts was that of the Colonial Weavers. Miss Zulma Steele also had some lovely pottery pieces at this booth. Then there was a booth showing Peasant Pottery from Italy, France and Spain, and Jack Horner toys for children, that would have delighted any child.

At another booth presided over by Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. Thatcher had lovely hand decorated boxes; Mrs. Edwards, rugs and bags of "Hooked work"; Miss Bertha Thompson, lovely silver and copper ware. At a booth presided over by Mrs. Wetzeran one found fascinating aprons, baskets and boxes, while the booth whose presiding genius was Mrs. W. Terwilliger, was devoted entirely to art basketry. The needlework and other beautiful work by Hungarian peasants was shown by the Misses Jeillinghaus. At the Schowall studio were photographs, calendars, views of Kingston and vicinity and the Woodstock Fire-Lighters.

One of the features of the evening's picturesqueness was that of the charming and most becoming costumes worn by the Junior League members and designed by Miss Horton, while Miss Ruth Shaler and Fred Van Etten came in for a most generous share of compliments on the arrangements of the entire fete.

After the guests had had time to visit and generously patronize the booths, the famous Wheeler-Wadsworth orchestra, summoned the dancers onto the floor, where they enjoyed dancing to a late hour, repeatedly encoring the orchestral numbers.
